consent (required)	Hello, I am [[fo_name]] from Innovations for Poverty Action, a research organisation, in Siaya town. We invite you to participate in a study run with researchers from Oxford University in the UK. We are studying the economic livelihoods of households in Siaya and Rachunyo. If you agree to this study, I will ask you some questions about your household for about two hours. We anticipate minimal risks associated with participating. You may find some of the questions sensitive: it is not mandatory you answer any question. We will ask which candidate you supported in the recent general election. You can refuse to answer any question or end the interview at any time, and your data will be erased. You can also withdraw your consent and request having your data erased at any point after the interview. This is solely a research project and is independent of any other governments or NGOs working in this area. As a sign of appreciation, we will offer you 1kg of sugar, but otherwise there is no direct benefit to you from participating. However, we hope the study will help researchers to better understand the work and livelihoods of households in Kenya. The results of the study may be published in academic journals. We will talk to about 10,000 households in this area. We will add up the information collected about all the households and make it available to the public. But any information that identifies you will be separated from your other answers so that only our researchers will be able to track your answers back to you. As with all research, there is a chance that confidentiality could be compromised; however, we are taking precautions to minimize this risk. This research project has been reviewed and approved by an Oxford University ethics committee. Our contact details are on this sheet for you to contact us with any concerns, or if you wish to withdraw your consent and information from the study. We will acknowledge your concern within 10 working days and tell you how we intend to deal with it. We also give you details of how to make a complaint. Do you have any questions? Do you consent to do this survey? Once the respondent has given consent, give the printed consent form to her and tell her that this printed form has the same information you have just given.	1	Yes

Field	Question	Answer
	highest value is the maximum level of monthly income you think your household will reach within ten years. The interval between [asp25_inc_min] and [asp27_inc_m1] represents an monthly income for your household in ten years time of between [asp25_inc_min] and [asp27_inc_m1]. The interval between [asp28_inc_m] and [asp29_inc_m2] represents an monthly income for your household in ten years time of between [asp28_inc_m] and [asp29_inc_m2]. Please put the 10 buttons in these intervals, to express the likelihood that your household's level of monthly income within ten years time will be in each of the four intervals. For example, if you place one button in the first interval between [asp25_inc_min] and [asp27_inc_m1], then you think it is very unlikely that your household's level of monthly income will lie between these two values. But if you place many buttons in an interval, you think it is very likely that your household's level of monthly income in ten years time will be between these two values. You need to use all 10 buttons and you can put them across all four intervals. Remember, the value of monthly income you think your household will have in 10 years is [asp24_inc_estimate].

risk1 (required)	[Enumerator show the respondent the options]. There are 6 options. Imagine this is a lottery and you have to make a choice between these 6 options (1, 2, 3, 4, 5 or 6). Which of the two amounts you get for the option you have chosen will depend on whether A or B is randomly chosen by the computer. Note that there is an equal chance (50% probability each) of the computer choosing A or B. [Enumerator: point out the options and the amounts on the card/poster/tablet]. Now let me explain what these options are. Each option has the amount in front of it that you will get depending on if A or B is chosen. You can see this on the card. [Enumerator: point out the options and the amounts on the card/poster]. For example, one option gives Ksh. 150 if A is chosen and Ksh. 150 if B is chosen by computer. Similarly, another option gives Ksh. 130 if A is chosen and Ksh 200 if B is chosen. Another gives Ksh. 110 if A is chosen and Ksh. 250 if B is chosen. Another gives Ksh. 90 if A is chosen and Ksh. 300 if B is chosen. Another gives Ksh. 70 if A is chosen and Ksh. 350 if B is chosen. Finally, one gives Ksh. 50 if option A is chosen by computer and Ksh. 400 if option B is chosen. Let us look at an example. For instance, I choose option 2. If A is chosen by the computer, how much will I get? Which of these 6 options would you choose? 	of the survey. We only want to measure the height of children under 5 years. FO: Read only if there is a child under 5 years of age in the house. Note to FO: The respondent might ask what the relationship is between children's height and health. If the respondent does not ask this question, don't talk about this relationship. If the respondent does ask this question, explain that young children who eat more food and are healthier sometimes get taller than other young children. There are many reasons why some children are taller and some are shorter. So the respondent should not assume that their own children who are taller are necessarily healthier than their own children who are shorter.
